CITY BACKGROUND

Webster City (population 8,070) is a historic, full service city in north central Iowa. Webster City was founded in 1850 under the name Newcastle and was renamed Webster City in 1856. Webster City is the county seat of Hamilton County. The city is surrounded by rolling hills, scenic recreation areas and excellent cropland. Located 10 miles from I-35, Webster City offers many aspects of small town life with the conveniences of larger towns. Webster City is known as 'Boone River Country' as the Boone River meanders along the east side of the city. Webster City's refurbished downtown reflects the community's past and features many historic buildings in the charming main street district.

Webster City has a high school, middle school and two elementary schools as well as a parochial elementary school. The Iowa Central Community College provides higher education opportunities to residents and in partnership with Buena Vista College in Fort Dodge offers bachelor's degrees. Webster City is the headquarters of several companies including Vantec, Van Diest Supply Company, Mary Ann's Specialty Foods, Webster City Custom Meats, Seneca Foundry and Tasler. Webster City's top industries are advanced manufacturing, plastics manufacturing, food processing, agricultural related products, and warehousing and distribution.

A recent addition in 2010 to the community is the Van Diest Medical Center which is a $35 million critical access hospital. Webster City has ten parks, two golf courses, indoor and outdoor community swimming pools, a recreation center, over seven miles of walking trails, and many camping areas. Briggs Woods Park, located one mile south of Webster City, features a 70 acre lake with a sand beach and camping facilities. The county fair is held each year at the Hamilton County Fairgrounds in Webster City.
